VAN’S KITCHEN DONATES 90,000 EGG ROLLS A MONTH IN NORTH TEXAS
Egg Roll Manufacturer Give Back to the Community That Gave Them Their Start

DALLAS, TX (August 21, 2020) — Van’s Kitchen, a certified Women-Owned and minority-owned egg roll manufacturer, continues to give back to the community that gave them their start in Dallas in 1986.

Knowing the need in their area, heightened now with the impact of COVID-19, Van’s Kitchen donates over 90,000 egg rolls, or 45,000 meals, to local foods banks in North Texas every single month. This is a tradition they have kept for over 14 years, and they have no intention of stopping. Carl Motter, CSO, says, “We believe that all people are Made to Love, so every egg roll we make is an extension of love for people. We can’t help but share that love with others.”

Aside from monthly donations to the food bank, Van’s Kitchen also supports local heroes. In June for National Egg Roll Day, a national day that Van’s Kitchen founded in 2019, Carl hand-delivered care packages of egg rolls to local fire stations to help them celebrate and to thank them for their hard work during the pandemic.

And CEO Theresa Motter’s passion for helping others in her community is evident in all she does. “We believe in providing opportunities so all people can fulfill their dreams,” she states. “No matter your gender, nationality, age, or class everyone deserves an equal opportunity for success. This is why everything we do supports our community and feeds our neighbors with egg rolls – all done with love.”
