

Cantaloupe, Inc. Launches Go Micro: The Industry’s Most Affordable and Versatile Self-Service Micro Market Kiosk

Go Micro Offers a Compact Size that Fits All Locations at a Competitive Price Point for Micro Market Operators

MALVERN, Pa., April 15, 2025 – Cantaloupe, Inc. (Nasdaq: CTLP), a global leading provider of end-to-end technology solutions for self-service commerce, is excited to launch the Go Micro, its newest self-service micro market kiosk. The Go Micro offers all the essential features to successfully run a micro market. Designed with affordability, versatility and seamless management in mind, the Go Micro makes it easier than ever for operators to start or scale their micro market business.

“Our mission at Cantaloupe is to empower operators to grow their businesses through smart, accessible technology,” said Gaurav Singal, chief technology officer at Cantaloupe. “With the Go Micro, we’re breaking down the cost barrier for starting micro markets. Whether you’re launching your first market or upgrading smaller locations from other kiosks, the Go Micro offers the flexibility, simplicity and affordability to help vending operators scale efficiently.”

The Go Micro’s compact footprint, integrated barcode scanner and five-inch touchscreen provide a seamless checkout experience for consumers. Its form factor allows it to fit into a wide variety of spaces and configurations, including the future ability to mount onto Cantaloupe’s Cooler Café units. It is fully integrated with Cantaloupe Go and Seed Markets, enabling operators to manage all their markets — regardless of size — on one powerful platform. This makes it easier to streamline operations, track inventory and optimize performance across all locations.

For operators like Stacy Davick, owner of Yakima Vending, “The cost of the Go Micro is appealing and helps with the return on investment. Instead of needing to spend six or seven thousand dollars to start a market in a small location, requesting to swap out their vending machines, the Go Micro lets you do it for much less.”

Noted Singal, “For small business owners starting their first micro market or existing customers wanting a secondary checkout at busy locations, the Go Micro offers a compelling and attractive price point that is a cost-effective path to unifying the micro market footprint under one platform — and simplifying the operational workflow.”
